LIFE.

Ah, this mystery, so rife
With mysteries, this Life!
Who can know it?—
Prophet nor poet,
Nor prince nor peasant.
This terrible Present:
Of all that has been, sum and history;
Of all that shall be, source and prophecy;
This living Past, present Futurity;
This Was, and Is, and Shall be so—
We may not know.
We?—we are but men.
Alone
God sitteth, on his throne.
Amen!
—R. R. Bowker, in Scribner for July.

ARCHERY CLUBS.

Archery clubs of from seven to fifteen members, both ladies and gentlemen, could be formed all over the country more easily, at less expense, and with far better results than cricket, croquet, or base-ball clubs. The rules governing such organizations should be few and simple, not unlike those of rifle clubs. Prizes could be offered, and medals of championship adopted. Once brought into public notice and fairly established, no sport or game would be half so popular or permanent. It has in it all the elements of desirable pastime and recreation. The physical exercise is better than fencing, boxing, or sculling; it has every feature of an exciting competitive game, is attended with no danger, and "shows off" the human form to the very best advantage,—a results possessing those of grace, ease, and power combined. A lady who has made herself "handy" with the bow never looks so well as when in the act of shooting. In England, archery has long been cultivated by ladies and gentlemen, and esteemed a fit sport for the gentlest and most cultured classes.—Maurice Thompson, in Scribner for July.

A WATER WONDER—PROPELLING BOATS WITHOUT WHEEL OR SCREW.

About three years ago, says the Baltimore Gazette, an intelligent mechanic of Baltimore began to put into shape some ideas he had concerning water as a propelling power for vessels. He believed that by judicious manipulation a boat could be propelled without a wheel or screw. With an inventor's sublime faith in the correctness of his theory, he gave his spare moments to putting his ideas into practical form. He built a model and launched it in a trough. He "fired up" with kerosene and raised steam to work his pump. The experiment with the working model satisfied the inventor that he was on the right track. But between that model and the trim little Alpha, which ran down the bay on her trial yesterday, there was a wide gulf of hope, disappointment, hard work, and expectation. At 11 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. George G. Cadwell, the inventor; Capt. Jeremiah Cottrell, master; Mr. John Ahern, business agent; and Mr. Wm. Warren, who has aided Mr. Cadwell, went on board at the Long Dock, accompanied by representatives of the press. The Alpha is a Baltimore-built boat, constructed on the tug-boat model, and as neat a thing of the kind as there is afloat. She is forty-three feet in length, and has ten and a half feet of beam. She is furnished with one sixteen horse power horizontal tubular boiler, and a No. 7 Knowles pump. From the pump to the stern are two lines of pipe, which strike the water about three feet beneath the surface. Two similar lines run to the bow. The pump drives through each pipe a two and a half inch stream, which enters the water through a ⅞ inch nozzle. With sixty pounds of steam the pump makes 180 strokes to the minute, each stroke driving a stream into the body of water. This is a there is about this wonderful device. And yet, under all the disadvantages of a trial trip, this was the device which yesterday enabled the Alpha to make ten knots an hour under sixty pounds pressure. There was not a ripple astern, and no perceptible displacement of the water, except the little made by the cutting of the bow. She was packed and turned with perfect ease. To back the boat the stream is driven through the bow nozzles and the craft obeys on the instant. If the boat were to spring a leak, the pump would simply draw its supply from the hole and go on with its work. It is claimed that a vessel provided with this appliance could not sink under ordinary leakage. For prudential reasons there were no experiments in this line yesterday. A remarkable feature of the Cadwell contrivance is that the power which propels will also steer. To accomplish this the nozzles are worked alternately from side to side, using the streams as levers, on the principle of the oar. There is yet another use to which this device can be applied. In case of fire on board or about the docks, a line of hose is attached to the pump, and in a second there is a floating steam engine which at least holds its own with anything on wheels. The inventor claims that his device can be profitably applied to any vessel, although it is mainly intended for canal service, where the demand is for a cheap propellor that will not wash the banks. Mr. Cadwell declares that both the first and after cost of his invention will be far less than that of any thing now in use. The entire driving apparatus is below, and no part of it could be carried away by accident or design. The whole thing is so simple that there is not much to get out of order, and nothing that could not easily be repaired. The attempt of the British Government in 1866 to apply water as a propelling power to vessels is the only similar effort within our knowledge. The Water Witch was propelled by streams forced out at the sides, a rotary fan supplying the power. The Water Witch achieved a failure and retired from business. Mr. Cadwell's invention has been patented in Europe, as well as in this country.

COMING TO COLORADO.

At the next election in Colorado an amendment to the constitution guaranteeing to women the right of suffrage will be voted upon. Only those who are now qualified electors will be entitled to vote upon this question. But while only the men will have access to the ballot-box, the women, who constitute the most interested party, are conducting the campaign with matchless spirit and enterprise. Already a number of women who have become more or less conspicuous as public advocates of female suffrage, are on the Colorado stump, exciting the rugged mountaineers with their fervid eloquence, and as the campaign advances others are going to the front. Susan B. Anthony will shortly place herself at the head of the advancing hosts, and Lucy Stone, with Miss Delia E. Partridge, of this city, a new stump orator in the suffrage cause, will aid her. Altogether Colorado will experience a very lively season.—Philadelphia Times.

CONVERT THE TOWN.

In nearly every town there are some men and women known as advocates of Woman Suffrage. But the question is, how shall we reach the people?

Appoint and advertise for a public meeting to be held on a certain evening, at which time two or three speakers should be present. After some speaking, invite those present of suitable qualifications to sign a petition to the Legislature for Municipal Suffrage by tax-paying women, and also a petition for a change in the constitution.

Appoint committees of two to canvass the town on the next day to secure other names of property qualified persons to the petitions. Have these committees also invite those they meet to attend the public meetings at the hall.

The second evening have reports made of the number obtained, the objections made to signing, and the money contributed for carrying on the work.

In this way hold public meetings, and canvass for names to the petitions in one place until every person of suitable qualification has been asked to sign the petitions.

Let the meetings always be held in halls, because a great many people will not go into churches.

In places where there is a Woman Suffrage Club they can arrange for these meetings to convert the whole people, and where there is no club let one be formed of men and women to consider political questions by essays and discussion.—T. in Woman's Journal.

THE NEW TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT.

There seems to be a revival of the popular interest in the temperance question, not only in this country, but in England. Indeed, it seems to us that the peculiar phase which the revival presents in this country is born of the English facts. The terrible state of things in that country among the poor, which has given rise to such noble efforts for temperance by Cardinal Manning, has roused at last the ecclesiastics of the English Church, and it is becoming quite respectable now in England to work for temperance. That makes it respectable here, of course, and it is really very encouraging to see wine-sipping clergymen and church members trying in a moderate way to counteract the legitimate effects of their own pernicious example. It is a trifle irritating to listen to their disclaimers of sympathy with the "extremists," who have made temperance a hissing and a by-word among respectable people. It is a little trying to the original Adam in an old fashioned teetotaler, who has cajoled himself that he might save his fellows, to be told that he is looked upon by the people of the new departure as a fanatic; but he understands exactly what that means, and should forgive it and forget it.

It is a comfort and encouragement to know that the results of intemperance have become so well appreciated that "men of moderate views" cannot keep on with their wine-drinking without doing something against their consciences. It is even amusing to see them hold to their wine-glasses with one hand, while they gesture furiously with the other about the abuses of the excise law, and stand upon their rights as freemen, gentlemen, and Christians, with one foot, while the other is lively in kicking the legal rum seller.

But we would not make fun of them, for however much they may be blinded as to their own position and the position of those whose principles and policy they have denied for so many years, they are to be congratulated that they have awakened to the fact that something must be done, and that they have a duty to discharge in the matter. Nay, we are willing to go farther than this, if they prove themselves to be in earnest. We will follow their lead, knowing, of course, where an earnestly pursued purpose will conduct them. All the earnest workers for temperance, and in a common conclusion; and the total abstainer may be sure that if these men are in earnest they will soon be in his company. There is no help for it, as he has thoroughly earned by experience and observation.—Dr. J. G. Holland: Scribner for July.

VARIETIES.

Tyndall, the philosopher, has built a summer home in the mountains of Switzerland.

You can generally tell what a man's going to do next, when he bits the lighted end of a cigar in his mouth by mistake.

When a small boy with a prejudice against yellow dogs observes an old oyster can in a condition of inactivity, he at once begins debating the question whether it was created to point a moral, or adorn a tail. The dog gets the first news of the decision.—Worcester Press.

The dust which accumulated on the roof of the Philadelphia Mint during the last twenty-five years has been gathered and assayed. It yielded eight hundred and fifty dollars' worth of gold and silver, which had passed up the chimney.

Max Adeler says: "We observe in the paper an item to the effect that a mother in Maryland bit off her child's toe in her sleep. We have so often remonstrated with mothers against the practice of sleeping with their children's toes in their mouths that we have little sympathy for this woman. Sooner or later the catastrophe is sure to come."

Stuart's paintings being like a mosaic of tints, had great purity and brilliance, but required distance to allow the juxtaposed colors to blend; according to it annoyed him to see people examine them too near. "Well, sir, does it smell good?" said he to some one who examined his painting as if it were a miniature.

When will men rise above this servitude to a soul-enslaving appetite? Reform is impossible while saloons abound. Good wages cannot be long preserved where men encourage such vices. The working classes will be compelled sooner or later to acknowledge that abstinence must be practiced before there can be any permanent amelioration in their condition.—Coal Trade Journal.

The Lancet considers the following lamentable occurrence to be confirmatory of the opinion that diphtheritic poison may be communicated in water like the germs of typhoid fever: A few weeks ago an inn-keeper at Belsmore lost all his six children by diphtheria. It seems that they were at Duddeston, and, being thirsty, they asked for and obtained a drink of water at a cottage in which a child lay ill of that disease, and so contracted it. The moral of this fact is very obvious.

Brooklyn enforced the law against fire-works on the Fourth of July. The boys were restricted to torpedoes, and a safe public display of fire-works was given. The result was no accidents and no fires. Baltimore took the same course, with the same result. New York resolved to tolerate the nuisance, "just this once;" result, one killed, twenty-five wounded, eleven fires. In Philadelphia the Mayor issued his usual proclamation and allowed it to be disregarded as usual. Next morning the papers reported two killed and twenty-nine wounded. Comment is useless.

THE COLORADO SPRINGS GAZETTE AND EL PASO COUNTY NEWS.

JULY 21, 1877.

Official Paper of El Paso County and of the City of Colorado Springs.

THE RANGE.

Although the dry weather during the latter part of June and early July cured some of the grass on the range, the recent showers have started the pasture finely, and our stockmen are now assured of plenty of feed for the coming winter. On the Divide the grass is better than it has been for many years. Cattle generally are doing well, and if prices warrant there will be large sales of beef stock this autumn.

BUSINESS FAILURES.

While the general outlook for business throughout the United States is decidedly better, failures seem to be rather on the increase. During the last quarter the amount of the liabilities of bankrupts is over nine million dollars more than that of the corresponding quarter last year. The average of the losses, however, is much less, showing that there were fewer failures of large concerns, the class affected being the small traders.

COUNTY FINANCES.

The semi annual report of the condition of El Paso County is printed in another column. It is a statement of which our county officers need not be ashamed, for it shows how ably and economically they have performed the duties of their respective positions. We believe that, with but one exception, El Paso County is taxed more lightly than any county in the State, and this is due to the integrity, judgment, and ability of our Commissioners, to whom the people of El Paso County owe a debt of gratitude which is not in their power to repay.

WORK ON THE COLLEGE.

Although not more than a dozen men participated in the Digging Bee last Wednesday, those who do generously give the day to the work labored so industriously that more than half of the excavation was completed. As the surface of the ground was filled with boulders, which have now been pretty well removed, the actual work of making the excavation was probably two thirds done. As the specifications have not yet arrived from the East, from which alone the exact size of the foundation can be obtained, nothing more in that direction will be done for a week or ten days; in the meantime, however, the Building Committee will contract for the delivery of the foundation stone so that there will be no unnecessary delay.

COLORADO AGRICULTURE.

Despite the troubles that our farmers have met with so far in the past three or four years, owing arising from the depredations of the grasshoppers, we believe that Colorado can be made to produce nearly everything that she does now and will in the future consume. We are informed by the leading millers in the State that nearly if not enough one hundred thousand barrels of flour can be spared this year for Eastern shipment, which will add largely to the wealth of the State. Although the potato crop on the Divide will not be very large, there will be ample for home consumption, and the price need not be high. The hay crop will be heavy, but as little will be cut from the plains the price will be higher than last year and will be regulated by the cost of laying down Kansas hay here. Oats have done well this year upon the Divide and in certain mountain valleys where the grasshopper have not prevailed. During a recent trip through Douglas County we noticed many excellent fields of oats and rye. The latter crop is particularly good, and we are sure that throughout all the higher lands, where irrigation is not necessary, rye can be remuneratively raised. Farmers do not appear to like it, and when we add to this its readiness for the mower long before the time for the coming of the wings frost, Mr. Harris, of Castle Rock, has put harvested twelve acres of fine rye which was sown last autumn, but lay in the ground without germinating until spring. The young locusts, although numerous in the locality, did him no harm whatever. Winter wheat will doubtless do well on the Divide, and be secure against the depredations of locusts, young or old. We strongly urge our farmers to form some sort of an organization under whose auspices they can meet frequently and compare views upon the many important matters that appertain to their interests.

THE SILVER QUESTION.

Some weeks since we touched upon the history of the passage of the act of Congress which really demonetized silver. Since then we have written to a number of the members of that Congress making further inquiry relative thereto, and have received answers from three or four. The writers say that no person paying the usual attention to the whole bill in which the silver clause was hidden in a great mass of technical verbiage, would have been likely to detect the objectionable portion of it; that all inquiries upon the subject were adroitly parried by Mr. Hooper and others. We now print below an article clipped from the St. Louis Republican, giving an account of the passage of the act in question, by a gentleman who very closely scans all legislation bearing upon questions of finance:—

Hon. W. D. Kelly, of Pennsylvania, has written a letter to a citizen of Massachusetts on the subject of the passage of the bill of 1873, dropping the silver dollar from the coinage, which tends to confirm the suspicion that that measure was a fraud on the people executed by conspirators in official position. Mr. Hooper, of Massachusetts, engineered it through the House, and Mr. Sherman, of Ohio, now Secretary of the Treasury, performed the like service for it in the Senate. It has been asserted that the bill was again and again before the two houses and was thoroughly discussed. This is true; it was discussed at various times, but it was never explained by those who had charge of it; the main point in it, the dropping of the silver dollar from the coinage, was kept so carefully out of sight that it was not till three years after the bill was passed that the country discovered how it had been deceived and cheated. The bill, as Mr. Kelly states, pretended to be a measure for the reorganization and better government of the mints; it was very voluminous and dealt so largely with matters that members were not familiar with that it attracted little attention, except from Representatives and Senators who were conversant with mint regulations. Mr. Kelly was chairman of the House committee on coinage, weights, and measures, and yet he admits that the real purpose of the bill was so adroitly covered up that even he did not suspect when he was advocating it and voting for it that he was voting to demonetize silver dollars. He says: "I was on the floor of the House when the bill passed, and under the last assurance of the late Mr. Sherman, in response to a question from Mr. Logan, of Illinois, as to what is the bill affected the coinage of the country, that it did not, permitted it to pass without objection from me, as it encountered none from any other member of the House." The bill was prepared by Dr. Linderman, now director of the mint, who was then on special service in the Treasury Department and in that capacity had recently visited England. The measure had the favor of the Treasury Department, and it would not be unfair to say that its success was due to the efforts of Mr. Boutwell, then Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Sherman, now Secretary of the Treasury, Dr. Linderman and Mr. Hooper. Mr. Kelly says: "I never favored the demonetization of silver, and having challenged my memory and compared notes with gentlemen who were on the committee with me, I cannot remember or learn of having ever heard the idea of its demonetization broached in the discussion of the provisions of the bill." It has been said that the measure was urged by an English capitalist, Mr. Ernest Leyd, and that improper influences were used to secure its passage. Whether this be true or not, one thing is certain: the measure was a wrong on the country and on every debtor in it, and its passage was discreditable to all who were intelligently engaged in it.

Preaching at the Congregational church tomorrow morning by Rev. Charles R. Bliss, of Wakefield, Mass., and in the evening by the pastor, Rev. R. T. Cross. In the afternoon at 3:30 Mr. Cross will preach at Manitou. Short sermon to the children in the morning.

Information has been received here that Messrs. Matt France and Edward Conley have safely reached the Silver Wing Mining Property in San Juan. They found everything in excellent order, and are now busily at work in running tunnels and developing the wonderful group of lodes known by the above name.

The GAZETTE job office has just printed for Mr. A. T. Blachly, of Monument, some circulars announcing that he has purchased a complete stock of school books and materials, miscellaneous books, and stationery. These have been added to his drug stock in Monument, and he is determined to supply the Divide country with what it wants in this line, and at as good rates as can be obtained anywhere.

The publisher, Mr. H. Thayer, No. 354½ Lawrence Street, Denver, sent to this office last Tuesday the second edition of his New Map of the San Juan Country. It is an accurate map, on a scale of 4 miles to the inch, and shows the mining districts, towns, mountains, streams, gulches, roads, and trails from the most recent reliable surveys. Anyone going into the San Juan region will find this map a valuable one to take along.

One night last week a mink got into the chicken house of Mr. W. B. Jones, one mile below town, and killed 96 chickens. The next night Mr. Jones set a trap and thought he had fastened the house so securely that the "warmint" could not get in; but, alas! one of the prowling thieves made his way into the house while another got into the trap. The one which got inside killed 12 more of the fowls, about cleaning out the whole flock. The chickens were engaged to be sold at $2.00 a dozen, and were to have been delivered last Tuesday.

The Ladies' Improvement Society have much pleasure in acknowledging the liberal donation of ten dollars from Gen. Palmer in aid of their efforts in the first place to place benches in different parts of the city for rest to weary promenaders, and in the next place, as soon as funds enough can be obtained, to beautify the parts by setting out trees and laying out the grounds. Others have also kindly contributed more or less, and if people generally will do a little, a good deal may be done by and by to make our town more attractive to strangers, and particularly invalids.

The new hotel in Colorado Springs—the Adams House—will open for the reception of guests with dinner on Monday. The large south room in the iron-front block has been partitioned and fitted up as an office, dining-room, and kitchen. Sleeping apartments are being provided up stairs, and will be well ventilated and pleasant. Some of the rooms have already been spoken for, and applications for accommodations are coming in so rapidly that Mrs. Adams is kept constantly busy preparing for the rush of customers. This new hotel will add to the city's facilities for entertaining visitors, and is much needed. Everything is being done in a manner that cannot help but win the appreciation of patrons.

A party of ladies and gentlemen left town on Thursday to make the ascent of Pike's Peak. Only one or two of the party took horses, the balance going in a wagon as far as Skunk Cabin in Bear Creek Cañon, from which point they walked to the summit.

"Do you enjoy this climate?" asked the Rocky Mountain guide, as he fed an Illinois editor up the steep sides of Pike's Peak. "Enjoy this climb it?" echoed the poor journalist, as he gasped for breath; "no, you bet I don't." The guide gazed scarcely and pitying upon his charge.

All pupils who failed in no more than two branches, at the close of last term, and who give satisfactory proof of having devoted a reasonable amount of time to study during the vacation as a preparation for examination, and who intend to enter school next term, that have not yet been examined will have an opportunity to enter examination on Friday, August 31, at the school house.

E. L. BARKER.

An ice cream saloon has been opened in the room late occupied by Carter's barber shop, just south of Mr. Barker's dry goods store on Tejon Street. Mr. Edward Brackey is the gentleman who has charge of the saloon, and he has carpeted, papered, and painted the room, and it is now a very attractive resort on these warm days. The ice cream is made of the best and purest materials, and the price is very reasonable indeed.

On Monday last Mr. A. L. Martin closed out his grocery store to Mr. W. E. Tilton, whose advertisement may be found in this day's paper. Mr. Tilton already has on the road here an addition to the stock, and will at all times keep a stock of goods as large and complete as the demand will justify. Mr. Martin's friends have grown so large that they demand his whole time and attention. Give Mr. Tilton an order and show your friendliness.

We think no one can say that our people are not liberal and generous by close as far as their circumstances will allow. Witness our college which is now commenced and will go right on to completion. Yesterday morning a large piece of books, a present from Mr. Blackmore, sent from England, arrived for the library. There was no money to pay $10 freight; in twenty minutes one of the officers collected enough to do it, and the best of it is that no one gave grudging, but gave willingly and with a free hand.

Wednesday night about 9 o'clock Mr. A. L. Mint went home and picked up what he thought was a jug of iron-water, from which he took a drink. By some means a jug of concentrated lye had been placed alongside the jug containing the iron-water, and Mr. Mint drank of the former. The skin was all burned off his throat by the fiery liquid, and the next morning he could not speak or swallow. Although everything has been done for his relief, we understand that the sufferer has been able to take very little sustenance, and is regarded as in a critical condition.

The admirable statement of the County's affairs in another column cannot be viewed without gratification by any of El Paso's citizens. The receipts and expenditures for the last half year, and present condition of each separate fund in the Treasurer's hands are shown in detail. It will be seen that the total amount of outstanding warrants is only $1,001.30; to meet which there is at present in the treasury $2,087.84. All warrants have been called in for payment by Treasurer Crowell, and the interest stopped. After a are paid there will be over $3,000 in his hands. The amount of delinquent taxes still due is $16,735.82. The total bonded indebtedness of the county is only $15,000. Were all the taxes collected, the entire debt could be paid to-day, and still leave over $4,000 in the treasury.

There seems to be a sad fatality hanging about Mr. Wm. Bush's baker wagon. The horse he used to drive to that wagon had periodical fits of running away, and in one of the spasms, after kicking the dashboard to pieces so small that they had to be swept up, came down on a sharp piece of iron in the wreck and killed himself. The wagon was repaired and a new horse obtained; and now this brute is attacked in the same manner—never missing an opportunity to take the bit in his teeth and light out, spite of the driver tugging at the lines and the fresh loaves flying in all directions. The last escapade of this risky animal occurred last week, and Mr. Wentworth, the driver, was thrown from the wagon and run over in a variety of ways; so much run over, indeed, that every part of his anatomy was bruised. Mr. Wentworth is very patient, and says he doesn't mind being spilled out two or three times a week, but that when it becomes a daily affair it grows monotonous. The effort on the part of the hogue seems always to be to damage the wagon as much as possible, and his name should be consulted and a new wagon purchased at once.

Last Saturday Mr. William Lennox was arrested on the complaint of a rival transfer man for leaving his team standing unhitched a moment while he went into Mr. Oscar Rainer's to get a drink. A fine of one dollar and costs was imposed upon Mr. Lennox—the whole amounting to a little over six dollars. He and Judge Little had a little row, without any grumbling.

The publishing house of Rand, McNally & Co., of Chicago, has sent the GAZETTE an advance copy of the large new war map issued by them. It is an excellent map of the country now occupied by the opposing troops of the Sultan and the Czar, the position of each being marked respectively by a red crescent and a red cross. The map is remarkably cheap, retailing at only 25 cents, postage prepaid, by the publishers.

Just before leaving for Maine last Thursday, Mr. Avery Phillips bought 16 head of thoroughbred Spanish Merino bucks from Messrs. Mason & Wright. These sheep came from Western New York, and the price paid for the 16 head was $800. Mr. Phillips will put them with his flocks on his range in Bijou Basin. This is but following out his policy of constantly improving the grade of his sheep, as he has been doing ever since he has been in the business.

The San Juan Railroad Company have filed articles of incorporation, for the purpose of constructing a railroad from Fort Garland, the present terminus of the Denver and Rio Grande, to Salt Lake City, by way of De Norte, the Rio Grande Valley, and the valleys of Clear Creek, Lake Fork, the Gunnison and the Grand, with branches to Ouray, Eureka, and the Animas Valley. The capital stock is $1,500,000; shares, $100 each. The incorporators are Charles B. Greenough, of New York; Charles B. Greenough, of Colorado; William Sherman, of Wisconsin, and F. W. Pitkin, James Knox, Hugh Alexander, and Harry A. McIntyre, of Colorado. The principal office will be located in Lake City. The following officers have been chosen for the fiscal year: President—C. B. Greenough; Vice President—William Sherman; Secretary and Treasurer—Harry A. McIntyre.

The charming opera of "Martha" was rendered in Colorado Springs last Saturday evening by the Rickings-Bernard English Opera Company, and was greeted by a full house of the lovers of fine music. Everybody seemed to be well pleased with the entertainment, while there was not a great deal of enthusiasm manifested. Mrs. Rickings-Bernard gave the "Last Rose of Summer" in a most pleasing voice and manner, and Mr. Harry Gates' superb tenor solo in the familiar air which has been translated into so many different words that we hardly know how to resignate it, but which is frequently known as "Ah, so pure," gave no less pleasure to the audience. Miss Hattie Moore as "Nancy," Mr. Kinross as "Plunkett," and the "Sheriff," were all good. The company went from here to Denver, where they have delighted large audiences during the week. This entertainment and all others of a worthy character serve to show how badly this city is in need of a hall in which singers and speakers can do themselves justice, and an audience can be comfortable while enjoying an evening's diversion. The man or men who will give the town a hall such as its size warrants will receive good returns from their investment.

The annual election for non-commissioned officers of Co "B," Colorado Springs Cavalry, was held at Prowsnian Hall last Monday evening, and the following roster was chosen for the coming year:—

Mr. and Mrs. John Harvey left for their tour to the old world on Thursday's southern train.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Macomber and Mr. and Mrs. S. Greenway have gone on a trip to the San Juan Country.

Mr. H. H. Baxter has engaged with Prof. Mallett to attend to the office duties of the reduction works at Rosita.

Prof. E. E. Seely has returned from his visit to the Black Hills. He thinks that region rich, but too many people to divide the riches among.

This office had a call on Monday from John Lamb, editor, and D. Laurie, correspondent, of the St. Louis Price Current and Trade Journal.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Adee returned from a three months' visit in the East last Sunday. They expect to make Colorado Springs their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bush have back from their two weeks' trip to the mountains. They may be interviewed by friends at the Bakery just above the postoffice.

The GAZETTE acknowledges a pleasant call last evening from Dr. Joseph A. Sewa, President of the State University. The Doctor came down from Denver Thursday morning, and will remain until Monday, when he will go south as far as Trinidad in the interest of the university. The building, since the late repairs, is in excellent condition—capable of accommodating comfortably four or five hundred students. The fall term will begin September 4, and Dr. Sewa regards the prospects as very encouraging indeed.

DENVER AND RIO GRANDE RAILWAY.

The News is glad to know that the temporary financial embarrassment of our pioneer narrow-gauge railway line, which was occasioned solely by outlays for construction, and not through mismanaging of its business, has been removed by the liberality of its bondholders in consenting to the funding of three interest coupons, to May 1, next year inclusive. A proposition to this effect was submitted by President Palmer in a circular dated April 30 of this year, and a later circular (July 10) from the same source, announces that the proposition has been accepted. The News congratulates the company on the success of its negotiations to this end, and assures the bondholders that they have little or no reason to fear that the expectations of the managers in regard to the business of the road will not be realized. In his circular of April 30, Gen. Palmer very fully and fairly stated the position in which the company was placed a few months ago. It was doing a satisfactory and paying business, but was in imminent danger of losing a considerable portion of it unless its line was extended, not only south but southwest as well. The completion of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road to Pueblo materially reduced the volume of business over the Denver and Rio Grande to the same point, and there was a prospect that either the Kansas Pacific, or the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road would reach out for the trade of New Mexico by a line to Trinidad, or for that of the San Juan country by an extension in that direction. Under these circumstances, as General Palmer says in his circular, it was necessary for the narrow-gauge to build south and southwest, and a sufficient distance to induce shipments by rail in preference to ox teams. The road was extended to El Moro and La Veta, but even then the ox teams proved to be formidable rivals, and in order to secure the San Juan trade it became necessary to build the expensive mountain division and to open it through Veta Pass to a point near Fort Garland. So little new capital could be secured in aid of this extension that the resources of the company were very heavily taxed to complete the work, but now that it is done it promises the best results. The large and continually increasing trade of the wonderful San Juan country is now fully secured to this road, and it will readily be seen that not only the mountain division but the whole line will be vastly benefited by the increased passenger and freight traffic. The additional business, together with the additional business, will swell the earnings of the company from about $50,000 per month to at least $75,000, and perhaps more—certainly more in a very short time, for the trade of the San Juan country is growing at a wonderful rate of speed. The earnings of the El Moro branch are bound to increase ere long, the headquarters of the Mexican trade having been recently transferred from Las Animas and La Junta to El Moro. Under these circumstances, the future of the Denver and Rio Grande looks bright, and we are pleased to add that its tourist trave this year is in excess of any preceding season, and fully equal to that of last year. The opening of the road over the Sangre de Cristo range, where it reaches the highest railway elevation on the North American continent, will attract tourists from all lands, and will constitute a profitable though expensive advertisement of the most romantic railway on the continent.—Denver News, July 18.

MORE LIQUOR CASES.

Suits were brought this week against John and Mary Rataizak for violation of the ordinance concerning the sale or giving away of intoxicating malt liquors. The cases were heard before Justice W. A. Smith, and each party was sentenced to pay a fine of $75 and to 20 days' imprisonment in the county jail. Both were incarcerated, but on Wednesday Mrs. Rataizak was released upon signing an agreement not to hereafter sell or allow to be sold on any premises belonging to her within the corporate limits of the city, either directly or indirectly, any intoxicating liquors; and further, that this release and agreement should be considered a settlement in full of all cases pending between the city and Mrs. Rataizak, but that she should not thereby be released from the payment of the fine of $75. It will be remembered that Mrs. Rataizak brought suit against the city for damages for false imprisonment, which suit is still pending. This is one of the cases settled by this agreement.

The principal reason why the city consented that she should not serve out her term of imprisonment was that the woman was not well, and that she has two small children who would have no place to stay while she and her husband were both in jail.

LIBRARY RECEPTION.

A meeting of ladies was held at the Library Rooms yesterday afternoon to make arrangements for an entertainment the coming week for the benefit of our public library. Friday evening, July 27, was fixed upon as the time, and the following committees were appointed:—

Literary Exercises—Mrs. Shields, Mrs. D. Russ Wood, Mrs. Jackson.
Music—Mrs. G. S. Barnes, Mrs. France, Mrs. Draper.
Reception—Mrs. Wright, Miss Grimes, Mrs. J. E. Barlow, Mrs. Doxsee, Miss Tupper.
Refreshments—Mrs. E. E. Bacon, Mrs. H. M. Pearson, Mrs. Moody, Mrs. T. E. Johnson.
Ice Cream—Mrs. Storm, Mrs. Dr. Smith, Mrs. Ensign.

Further announcement will be made next week.

Rev. Marshall Tingley, of Blair, Neb., has rented a house on South Nevada Ave. His family will come here and make this their home on account of Mr. Tingley's health. Rev. C. R. Bliss, of Wakefield, Mass., is spending some months in Colorado for his health. Rev. Mr. Emory, of Weymouth, Mass., is also in town for a few weeks. All of these are Congregational ministers.

THROUGH VETA PASS.

To the Editor of the Gazette:—

A few minutes after 6 o'clock a. m., we are on the way. The morning is fresh and bright, the party is most harmonious, and up to the enjoyments offered them. An excellent breakfast is ready for us at the Pueblo Station, after which we go on our way to up the mountains—such a series of twists and turns, as one of our party remarks, that horseshoe curves become monotonous on this line. Surely the engineer must have his ideas bent double, and it will be a long time before he will be able to draw a straight line.

The Spanish Peaks, the Greenhorn, the Raton Mountains, and the Sierra Blanco rise in sight; to the left we get a glimpse of New Mexico; to our right we see Huerfano Park and the isolated butte, the Orphan, from which this section takes its name. One cannot ride through this large State, so rich in possibilities, so health-giving in climate, without longing to see it peopled by the many now crowded into towns and narrow streets and too thick settled countries where the struggle for bread is so terrible that the stoutest hearts and most willing hands are of small avail.

How beautiful is the blue haze at the mountain base; how sleek the cattle grazing on either side of us. We pass through a Mexican settlement. It is a very short time since this railroad passed right through the oven of one of the houses in this settlement. I hope the family had had their breakfast. I do not believe the dusky people who gaze upon us as we whirl by have yet recovered from the astonishment of that morning; but the locomotive, civilization's apostle, is sturdy and persistent and when its voice is heard crying in the wilderness the barbarians' days are numbered, the strong race is at hand.

Now we leave the town of La Veta behind us, enter the Pass, and begin the wonderful ascent. Some one asks what is the grade, and is answered from 116 to 117 feet. This does not say as much to me as the fear est the articles on the truck in front of our car shall come somersauting through the door, so great is the inclination; but they are securely tied. How marvelously beautiful is this steep, narrow pass! We soon reach Mule-Shoe Bend. Here the curve is so sharp that I feel tempted from our car window to shake hands with the fireman who glowers at us from the engine through the black smoke which envelops him; but the real magician sits beside me. I know he is friendly, and however alarming the appearance, will never conjure to our hurt. The trees whose foliage we could touch a few moments since now lie way below us; off to the left we look down upon a stern going on in the mountain tops. At the summit of the Pass—9,343 feet above sea level—we halt a few moments in close proximity to a cloud factory. If we could only carry home with us the tiniest bit of this fleecy originness to place among our household gods! We gather roses and harebells in a forest of quaking asp. Then begins the descent, as marvelous as the ascent, and equally impossible to describe. At Sangre de Cristo, the terminus of the road, we dine at Joseph D. Perry's, the man who always keeps the house at the end of the track. He has invested 13 times, and has just commenced a hotel at the next prospective station. If you want a good dinner go to the end of the line, wherever this may be, and you will find Mr. Perry in readiness and a dinner you will long remember. Our dining-room was not one of those woulde-be elegant apartments presided over by a servant dressed individual with gloves over his arms majestically surveying the nothing to eat, but a room bearing a strong resemblance to a tent. The mountain trout and delicious beefsteak disappeared with wonderful rapidity. I hope to eat some day, at dinner of Mr. Perry's providing at Garland in the hotel he has just commenced, to satisfy a curiosity as to whether a dinner in a hotel can be as good as a dinner in a tent.

We turn our faces homeward. Up to the summit again—the highest point reached by railroad in this country, the second highest in the world. Down into the Pass round the sharpest of railroad curves again. Just round this curve we switch off on to a side-track and wait for half an hour to wait for the coming regular, whose smoke we can see way down the valley. We improve every moment of this precious half-hour, clambering up and down the mountain sides, gathering wild flowers which would make garden flowers blush. I will only pause over a few of them—harebell, rose, columbine, forget-me-not, and mariposa. I do not know the loving names of the others, and can not and would not call hard names the as earnest people do. We gather them in such handfuls that they cease to be bouquets and become great sheaves of most varied hue and color. A whistle recalls us. We sit in our car and watch the regular pass us, go round Mule-Shoe Bend and up toward the summit. Puff away, brave little engine; you have a right to blow; you have overcome the lately impossible.

Some of our party with wisdom cover their flowers with damp papers and so preserve them, but I with perverse improvidence place mine on a seat facing me and feast upon them in the light of closing day. It is now 5 o'clock in the evening. The day has not for a moment lost its morning freshness. The mountain sides and distant snaggy plains are filled with a voiceless music which goes to the heart. It is the embodiment of the best song. We are nearing the foot of the Pass. Good-bye, Fairy land. Out we go into the open country; halt a moment at La Veta; on to Pueblo for supper; then to Colorado Springs, where we arrive at 2 o'clock in the morning.

What a perfect day it has been; not one mar.

CHRIST promises that His followers shall "Lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover."

CHRISTIAN founded cure is the evidence of the Christian religion And He sent them to preach the kingdom of God and heal the sick" We are assured that "The prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up"

The Gems used for external adornment vary in essential from those required for internal beautification, and as the intensely lustrous reflex of the former is indicative of preciousness, so the genial smile serenely resting upon the sunny features of the possessor of the latter is indicative of their intrinsic value. I respectfully invite the attention of the public to Gems of the latter class, which I have placed on exhibition and for sale in the Huggins block, on Pike's Peak avenue, Colorado Springs.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE.

NOTICE is hereby given that by virtue of and in pursuance of a decree of the County Court, made at the June term thereof, 1877, I will offer for sale at public vendue, on Wednesday, the 1st day of August A. D 1877,

at 2 o'clock p. m., at the front door of the County Clerk's office, in Colorado Springs, El Paso County, Colorado, the following described property known as the Big Springs, belonging to the estate of Betsy A. Harrington, deceased, to-wit: The undivided one half of the southwest quarter of the northeast quarter, and the northwest quarter of the southeast quarter, and the north half of the southwest quarter of section three, in township fourteen south, of range sixty-two west; also the undivided one half of the southwest quarter of section thirty-five, township thirteen, and the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section two, and the east half of the northeast quarter of section three, in township fourteen south, of range sixty-two west, containing three hundred and twenty acres more or less. Terms, cash.

G. J. CORNISH,
Administrator.

ASSESSMENT ROLL.

CITY CLERK'S OFFICE,
COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO.,
July 5th, A. D 1877.

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that the assessment roll of taxable real and personal estate in the city of Colorado Springs for the year 1876 has been completed and returned to the City Council by the Assessor. All persons feeling themselves aggrieved by the assessment of their property are hereby requested to make or file their objections in my office on or before the 25th day of July, 1877, at which time the same will be heard. F E. DOW,
City Clerk.

ROUND ABOUT THE STATE.

Ouray is to have a bank.

The new postoffice at Lake City is completed.

The laws will be ready for distribution in a week or ten days.

Fast trains on the A., T. & S. F. road to Pueblo were resumed last Sunday.

Colorado wool is improving every year by the introduction of better breeds.

The Ouray Times reports the discovery of several free gold lodes in the vicinity of San Miguel.

Samuel L. Taylor, of Philadelphia, has been appointed a commissioner of deeds for Colorado.

Certain parties are talking of getting up a stock company and erecting concentration works in or near Rosita.

The Rosita Index says that the Pocahontas is shipping daily six tons of ore to Mallet's works and three or four tons to Denver.

According to the county clerk's statement, Saguache County has assets amounting to $11,036.35; outstanding warrants, $1,257.13.

Over thirty thousand dollars' worth of silver bullion was shipped from Rosita through the hands of express agent Tomkins during June.—Index.

John A. Kimball, of Ouray, has a specimen of gray copper silver ore, from one of his mines in Mount Sneffels District, that runs over $2,000 to the ton.

A firecracker fired the house of F. Sanborn, of Greeley, on the Fourth. A timely discovery prevented a loss to a larger extent than will be covered by $30.

Ten silver bricks, worth $20,000 currency, were produced at the Boston & Colorado Smelting works last week. They were shipped East last Monday afternoon.—Black Hawk Post.

The Index says the merchants of Rosita have divided the trade, which usually in country towns is a mixed one, into separate departments, each house carrying a certain line of goods.

A more recent assay of ore from the Cuba Mine than that mentioned in our Mining Notes, gives $14,600 in silver to the ton, and betrays the presence of native silver. San Juan is booming up, and more especially Lake District.—Silver World.

A handsome bar of bullion silver, weighing about one hundred pounds, and bearing the legend "Crooke," adorns the counter of the First National Bank of Lake City. This is half the product of a recent small run at Crooke's works.

Mrs. E. J. Hamilton, Margaret V. Hamilton, and Ellen Hamilton, of Fort Wayne, Indiana, have presented the Colorado Woman Suffrage Association with the sum of two hundred dollars to help the summer work for Woman Suffrage in this State.

Hon. Lorenzo Dow, of London, England, is in Del Norte. He will erect lixiviation works in the Animas District this season. Mr. Dow has had experience in the Venezuela mines of South America, and his experience there will enable him to work understanding here.

The Denver News says: The late destruction by fire of a considerable portion of Del Norte is another warning to Colorado towns, large and small, to guard against fire by every possible safeguard and precaution. So many frame buildings are found everywhere in the state that the real dangers of fire are largely increased.

Says the Rocky Mountain News: Prof. Joseph A. Sewall, the new President of the Colorado State University, is a graduate of the Lawrence scientific school, at Cambridge, Mass., and has been for seventeen years professor of natural science in the Illinois State Normal School at Bloomington. To his varied scientific attainments and extended experience as an instructor, Prof. Sewall adds a keen knowledge of the world, a quick discernment of character, and a courteous, genial manner, which cannot fail to render him a suitable person to preside over the university of the State, and to lay the foundations of an institution which is destined to exercise so large an influence upon the future of Colorado.

We notice in the News that the oil company which operated near Cañon City is reorganized and propose resuming work. Mr. A. M. Cassedy, the president, says the last boring done was by experienced oil men from Pennsylvania, and as far as borings have gone the rock formations are identical with the oil regions of Pennsylvania. This being true, there is no reason why we may not reasonably expect within a short time that our oil supply will be of home production. The manager of the company is now at the works making the necessary arrangements for the immediate prosecution of work. Most of the machinery necessary for commencing is on the ground, except casing, but article will shortly be procured, so that no delay will occur on account of casing, which has heretofore prevented the deep boring.

The celebrated American mine, Boulder County, has been sold to New York parties. The Boulder News contains the following notice of the important transaction: This week a deed was placed on record in this county transferring the American Mine at Sunshine from Hiram Hitchcock to R. G. Ange, of New York, for the sum of $212,000, and another deed from Ange to the American Gold and Silver Mining Company for $1,000,000. We suppose the mine is stocked at that sum. We congratulate the company upon their purchase of so valuable a property. Prof. Alden Smith is retained as superintendent and general manager. We have faith that he can make the mine pay a dividend on $1,000,000 if allowed to manage it as he has done all along. He has no extravagant notions of ponderous works and mighty engines such the mine requires such outlay.

ADDRESS OF MRS. LETTA YOUMANS.

Mrs. Youmans, of Prince Edward's County, Can., contributes this thought: "We have been waking up to the great thought in our county, and province, and dominion, that we have been selling our boys to pay the revenue, and we see that we are paying too dear a price. We saw that we were not protecting our children as well as our domestic animals are protected. I do not know whether you protect the birds and fish, and everything else but the boys, but we do; and we have come to the conclusion that our boys are worth as much to us as the fish in Lake Ontario. We have had a law for many years making it a high crime to sell drink to an Indian, and we begin to think that white men are as well worth saving as an Indian, and to ask again, 'Can't they be saved?' Just think of the absurdity; $500 and two years in the penitentiary for selling an Indian liquor, and twenty paltry dollars and costs for selling to one of our boys. Oh! the heathen nations are rising up to condemn us. In our Woman's Convention yesterday, we made the Queen of Madagascar a Vice-President of our International Association, because she pours out the rum given to her for revenue, and will not kill her subjects with it."

INTO THE SCHOOL FUND.

Mr. J. B. Groesbeck, Superintendent of Schools for Boulder County, calls the attention of justices of the peace, clerks of courts, or other officers or persons who may have collected fines, forfeitures, proceeds of lost goods, estrays, sums of money derived from fines imposed for violation of orders of injunction, mandamus, and other like writs, or for contempt of court, to the provisions of section 68 of the school law, which reads as follows:—

SEC. 68. All fines, penalties, and forfeitures provided by this act may be recovered by action of debt, in the name of the people of the State of Colorado, for the use of the proper school district, or county, and shall when they accrue, belong to the respective districts or counties in which the same may have been incurred; and the county treasurers, for their counties, are hereby authorized to receive and cause to be placed to the proper credit such forfeitures. Except as otherwise provided by law, all sums of money derived from fines imposed for violation of orders of injunction, mandamus and other like writs, or for contempt of court, shall be paid into the school fund of the county wherein the contempt or such violation was committed; and the clear proceeds of all fines collected within the several counties of the State for breach of the penal laws, and all funds arising from the sale of lost goods and estrays shall be paid over in cash by the person collecting the same, within twenty (20) days after the collection, to the county treasurer of the county in which the same have accrued, and shall be by him credited to the general county school fund. He shall indicate in such entry the source from which the money was derived. Any officer or person collecting or receiving any such fines or forfeitures, or other moneys, and refusing and for failing to pay over the same as required by law, shall forfeit double the amount so withheld, and interest thereon at the rate of five (5) per cent. per month during the time of so withholding the same; and it shall be a special duty of the County Superintendent of Schools to supervise and see that the provisions of this section are fully complied with, and report thereupon to the County Commissioners semi-annually or oftener if required by them.

Mr. Groesbeck continues: We want, and need every dollar of our school money, and we must have it. The County Treasurer will certify to me quarterly the amount of such money received, and I will report the same to the County Commissioners, and publish the same in our county papers.

ANOTHER BIG STRIKE.

Says the Lake City Silver World of last Saturday:—

Friday, the 6th inst., this city was thrown into the widest excitement by the report that gold had been found in a large quantity, in the Fidelia Mine, about seven miles southwest of town. An investigation of the rumor proved that the half had not been told and that a vein of mineral richness had been unearthed which far outrivals the famous Hotchkiss Mine, which gave this county its reputation as a mining region. The Fidelia is on the left fork of Alpine Creek, and owned by Cowell, Loper, Pitkin, and Sherman. On the day mentioned the workmen on the tunnel, when in sixty feet, and at a depth of forty feet, struck a vein of telurium, carrying free gold and ruby silver, specimens from which assayed $7,232.50 in gold, and $1,805.20 in silver, assayed by Prof. Woodward. Upon discovering the presence of gold in the ore being taken out, attention was called to several tons on the dump, which had been considered a most worthless, but which was now found to contain gold in more than paying quantity. Having but just struck the vein it is impossible to yet tell its width or average richness, but everything now points to an immense quantity and a rich quality. The company owning this mine have ample means to develop it, and will continue in doing so. The business place of Cowell & Loper has been crowded daily this week, by those anxious to see the specimens there on exhibition, many of which are bristling with free gold. All day, Saturday and Sunday, the region of the mine was being prospected by crowds of men with pick and shovel, anxious to find other deposits of the yellow metal, and there are at this writing not less than 300 men in the vicinity prospecting, or developing their mines already located.
